

May 20, 2004

NDDS wishes to thank all returning customers and all new customers for their support and belief in the NDDS as an innovative, affordable developmental screening tool.

A newsletter seemed to be the best way to keep you informed of our progress to date and alert you when new products and services become available.

As you know the screen is available in English, French, Spanish and Chinese. Within the next six months we will be adding Vietnamese to the languages available. Please feel free to email us your suggestions for other language needs.

NDDS is pleased to announce that a new company, NDDS USA has been incorporated in the state of Virginia to service our American customers. Soon you will see an opening, welcome page on our web-site providing access to our Canadian and American sites.

With the state of technology expanding into all areas of health care, the NDDS has been in the stages of developing an electronic screening tool. We are almost ready to begin our pilot project. Once it has been thoroughly tested, it will become available to customers who are in a position to screen electronically. Imagine a public health nurse visiting a family and completing a screen using a palm pilot. The electronic screen will also allow the collection and subsequent review of statistical data. You will receive a newsletter informing you of the launch of the electronic screen.

Plans are also underway to allow you to make your purchases of both the hard copy screen and the electronic screen on-line while visiting our web-site.

New products are always being considered. Laminated screens are now available for purchase at $50.00 per set. Toy Kits to accompany the screen are in the initial stages of development.

Look for us at a child development conference in your area. Representatives from the NDDS are frequently in attendance providing training workshops, attending as presenters or set up as vendors.

Keeping in touch with our customers has now been established and will continue to be our way of keeping you informed. Thanks for your continued interest in and support of the NDDS.